Game plan pays off

BRENTWOOD resident Jason Wong has earned praise for his part in creating another “world”.

The UWA PhD student was part of a team that won second prize at the annual Australian game development competition, Interzone Nullarbor, on Sunday, April 1.

The team’s computer game, Zyberflux, is set in another universe and requires players to navigate a ship past obstacles and shoot down enemies. Mr Wong said he spent weeks building the game from scratch.

“It was definitely worth all the effort we put in,” he said.

“I think the journey was more meaningful than the destination.

“It really was a great feeling to give your all to create something from nothing.”
